Penzance November 17. 1814.

My dear Sir.

You were kind enough to say when I was in London that you would procure for me two engravings, I have enclosed two drawings for that purpose, the one which is Langon Cromleck is intended for a title page, but unfortunately it is rather too large, an error which the Engraver will easily correct by adjusting the blinds, &c. that of St Michael's Mount will I believe be found of the proper dimensions - to prevent however all mistakes I have inclosed a page of the book itself from which you will easily judge - the book is printed, & waits only for the engravings - I should therefore feel much indebted if you will send me as soon as possible a proof impression, at the same time mention whether the state of drawing is such as to satisfy the engravers, & as we shall be able shortly to supply you with such sketches for our Engravings to be published in the Transactions - apropos - I have not yet sent you the papers having waited for some farther communications of interest -

I presume you have heard that the Prince Regent has become Patron to our Society, & has presented us with a donation of One Hundred Guineas; several other donations have been also received to the amount of £300 - We have consequently fitted up a Meeting Room in Penzance, in the style of the London Societies, & our cabinet is becoming worthy of our Importance -

Our next meeting is on Friday next, when I expect Lord Dunstanville at my house in order to attend it, after that I shall send you the papers I propose, & shall be glad to hear your opinion of them -

I remain Yours very sincerely

John Ayrton Paris. -

DSI

Dr Paris / London
author of the life of Sir H. Davy various medical works.